Time: 11:00 am

SYNOPSIS OF THE PLAY

Hopes of the Living Dead is a drama of struggle and hope by society's rejects. A true story of courage and resilience based on the life of Ikoli Harcourt-Whyte who was afflicted with leprosy at an early age and condemned to life as a beggar and an outcast.

As a leader, Harcourt led the Lepers' Rebellion of 1928-32. The success of the revolt resulted in the creation of the self-sustaining Uzuakoli Leper Colony and Research Centre where Harcourt Whyte and his counterparts, as human guinea pigs, helped in the discovery of cures for leprosy.

Cured of the disease in 1949, Harcourt-Whyte formed a choir made up of other Uzuakoli patients. This choir, known for their sonorous voices performed in churches and entertained both the commoner and dignitaries across the land for decades.
